

a gate electrode adjacent to said channel forming region with a gate insulating layer interposed therebetween,

C,
said source and drain regions,

D,
and wherein a pair of portions containing n-type and p-type impurities are formed adjacent to said source and drain region, wherein an electrode is connected to at least one of said pair of portions.
